Hi Jenn,

The various online forums that approved the posting of our event invitation, have now all denied (or not approved) the posting of the attached fact sheet we are trying to get out there ahead of the event.

We just want to push back against some of the misinformation metastasizing online. So that we can spend more time responding to informed questions versus tinfoil hat conspiracy theories.

I don't know if the City has a way of getting this out there. Maybe it's not something the City can do. But in that case, maybe you could at least pass it along to any community members who have reached out to the City interested in more communication from the developer.

These NIMBY individuals that have some sort of admin power over their social media groups are actively denying our attempts to communicate with the public. We will certainly be mentioning that at the City Council public hearing. The narrative that they want more information is completely undercut by the controlling of information and censoring what the public can see.

Thank you,
